

Call for papers Cadernos de Estudos Sociais (2017, Issue volume 32, number 1 and 2)

Cadernos de Estudos Sociais is a biannual, peer-reviewed and indexed publication from the Joaquim Nabuco Foundation (Recife, Brazil). The journal welcomes paper submissions in Portuguese, English and Spanish, which are published in their original language. The submission of articles is entirely done on-line, through the journal's website (<http://periodicos.fundaj.gov.br/index.php/CAD>).

Cadernos aims at publishing contributions of high academic caliber within the main contemporary areas of the social sciences, by national and international authors. It alternates between special thematic issues and open calls.

The theme for numbers 1 and 2, 2017, will be thematically open.

The journal is published both in printing and in electronic format and reaches a number of public and university libraries in Brazil and other countries in South America. Institutions interested in receiving the printed version anywhere in the world should contact the journal editors with their request. Cadernos de Estudos Sociais accepts subscription requests from within Brazil and overseas.

Focus, scope and review procedure of Cadernos de Estudos Sociais

Cadernos de Estudos Sociais aims to publish original articles in any field of the social sciences, such as education, sociology, political science, anthropology, economics, demography, social statistics. Cadernos is open to collaboration from academic and research staff in Brazil and overseas, written in Portuguese, English or Spanish. Its editorial policy seeks to make room for the debate of current society's themes, in the shape of theoretical-methodological discussions, theoretically or methodologically grounded research outcomes, reviews or research notes. Pieces are welcome which provide comparative analysis of Brazil and other countries, through interdisciplinary and multidisciplinary dialogue across the fields of knowledge of social sciences.

Submitted articles are assessed by peers. In special cases, guest editors will be invited to organize a particular issue of the journal, in areas of their expertise. The magazine is published in electronic (html and pdf formats) and printed versions. Each author will receive five copies of the printed version, contingent on correct completion of their personal details at the time of the submission.

Cadernos de Estudos Sociais is not liable for the wording or the views and opinions expressed by authors in the published texts.
